Letter To The Editor

May 15, 1975

Dear Editor:

As I sat reading the Times-Virginian tonight, I had to stop and wonder why our Board of Supervisors had to decide not to set a hearing on the new zoning ordiance. It seems that the only time they stop and consider the feelings of the people that they represent is an election year.

The way I look at the zoning ordinance, is that we have too many petty interferences from the federal government without any more from the local government.

The only time the Board of Supervisors will hold their meetings is when the working people are at work not when they were petitioned to do so. I feel with the past records speaking for themselves that a completely new Board will be the best thing that could happen to Appomattox County.

I hope that every citizen in the county will think about this on Election Day.

A Concerned Citizen,
T. C. Pankey, Jr.

Golf 'Scramble' Planned For June 8

A "nine-hole scramble" for members of Falling River Country Club has been planned for Sunday, June 8 with tee-off time set at 4:30 p.m.

Fee for the event will be $5.00 per couple and each couple is asked to bring a covered dish vegetable or salad for the supper planned to follow the golf tournament.

Couples are asked to sign up at the club house.

Lawson Ford To Sponsor 4-H Dog Show

Lawson Ford will sponsor the fifth annual Appomattox 4-H Dog Show on Tuesday, June 3 on the Appomattox High School (old, now Middle) football field. The show will begin at 7 p.m. and all Appomattox 4-Hers with dogs are eligible to enter.

In order to show his or her dog, a 4-Her will need a collar and a leash. Classes will be as follows: Toy Dogs, Working Dogs, Hounds, Sporting Dogs, Terriers, Non-sporting Dogs. Other special classes will be a costume class, showmanship and grooming.

Trophies will be awarded to the winners in each class with first through fifth place ribbons also being awarded in each class.

All dogs may be shown regardless of breed. Mixed breed dogs as well as purebred dogs may be exhibited. Refreshments will be provided by the Lucy Glover 4-H Club.

Mark your calendar and plan to come to 4-H Dog Show, June 3 at 7 p.m. on the High School football field. (now Middle School)

The Pastor Speaks

"THE CHURCH CATHOLIC"
By The Rev. E. M. Peoples, Jr. Vicar, St. Anne's Episcopal Church

Catholic. What do you mean by that?

The term is confusing because it is used in two manners. The first is to name a particular Church: The Roman Catholic with its roots deep in history and its home in Rome, Italy. The Roman Catholic Church, is, in fact, the "mother Church" of Protestant denominations. Most of us within the Protestant sector of Christianity can trace our roots, utimately, to that tradition. So the term Catholic is often used to name a particular branch of Christendom.

The second use of the word is broader. This use includes everyone who is a Christian. For in a real sense, we are all catholics (small "c").

To be catholic is to participate in the universal Christian Faith. One meaning of catholic is "universal", another is "all inclusive." Christ is the God-man for us all. The Incarnate God made himself known to a select people. But, He gave specific instructions (by His word and deed) that He was here for all men, not just the Jews.

Those who claim Jesus as their Lord and Saviour are participating in a 2,000 year old Faith. This Faith is catholic: it is for all time; and for all people.

Thanks be to God.

The Sunday School Lesson

Comment on the International Sunday School lesson for Sunday, May 25, 1975.
Topic: Dangers of False Security
Scripture: Isaiah 31:1-3; Jeremiah 7:1-15, 26; Micah 6:6-8
It is better to take refuge in the Lord than to put confidence in man. Psalm 118:8

Three passages from the message of prophets who lived in times of peril and crisis have been selected as the Scriptural basis for the International Sunday School lessen on the dangers of false security. Isaiah and Micah lived in the eighth century, B.C., when Assyria conquered the northern kingdom of Israel and took most of its people captive, overran Judah and threatened Jerusalem. Jeremiah lived in the seventh and sixth centuries, B.C., when Judah was a pawn of Egypt and Babylonia, and the latter captured and destroyed Jerusalem and took most of the people of Judah into exile.

In such eras of turbulence and uncertainty and uprooting, people look urgently and avidly for security. It is not surprising that contemporary prophets should have spoken on the subject. They warn against some approaches the people took toward security because they saw them as false. They counseled the people to seek the true security. Their concept of security, provided by God's revelation and nourished in their dedication to Him, differed sharply from popular ideas of security.

Isaiah was concerned with a tendency which was strong in Judah from the first threat of Assyrian domination to the very end of the nation, the disposition to call, on Egypt for help against and deliverance from other enemies. It seems to have mattered little to Judean advocates of an Egyptian alliance that this course would bring them under Egyptian rule, probably because they anticipated preferred treatment for themselves from the Egyptians. Jeremiah was later to warn against looking to Egypt for security. In a broader application, these prophets saw no real or enduring help or security from alliances with other nations, as Isaiah would remind Hezekiah when the Babylonians envoys visited him. The nation would lose its independence, the people would become exiles or slaves (or both).

Jeremiah and Micah point out that religious sites and practices are ineffectual to insure security. Their contempories had learned nothing from the earlier history of Israel, when the people trusted in the Ark of the Covenant to save them and took it into battle with the exception that it would bring them victory, only to be defeated and have the Ark captured. Jeremiah's contemporaries believed that the location of the temple in Jerusalem would save them. Micah's contemporaries sought security in the religious practice of sacrifices. The prophets declared that neither temple nor sacrifices would save them. We need to remember that "God doth not need either man's works or his own gifts," as Milton put it. God is not bound by what men do, even in His name.

The true security, these prophets declare in messages consistent with the entire Old Testament teaching, lies in God. If true security is with God, one would suppose that religious practices would insure

MRS. COLEMAN 4-H

Friday, May 9, 1975 our 4-H talked about different camps and contests. We finished our 4-H books and are going to pass them up Wednesday. We have 4-H camp coming up July 14-18. Also we have a Dog Show and Walk-A-Thon. The Dog Show is June 3, 1975. The Walk-A-Thon is May 24, 1975. We had 37 people under 14 to enter our 4-H Demonstration. We also had three people to go to the County Area Fair. We got our 4-H posters back for "Farming 200 Hundred Years Ago." We have Dairy Week, June 6th.
